HOW YOU STUDY?

Am I ready to study?

A University of London qualification is highly regarded worldwide. Given the academic rigour of our programmes, to achieve good results requires a high degree of self-motivation. But your hard work will be worth it in the end, as you will join an expanding community of alumni with excellent career prospects.

Flexible study

You can manage your studies to fit in with your own schedule. As a guide, you should dedicate at least 35 hours per week for approximately 34 weeks of the year if you intend to complete the maximum of four courses in any one year. Our programme provides an opportunity to obtain a prestigious qualification at a reasonable cost.

Study materials

Your study materials are available through the Student Portal and are specially written by academics appointed by LSE. The cost of your study materials is included in your initial and continuing registration fees. Depending on the course, materials are likely to include a Student guide to the International Programmes and the Programme handbook; subject guides for each course studied; past examination papers and Examiners' commentaries; and, Programme regulations containing full details of syllabuses, programme structures and degree classification criteria.

Books

You will need to purchase your own books. We ensure all key books are widely available either from internet bookshops or by mail order.

Study support

The University does not provide personal tuition to International Programmes students, although staff can help you with administrative queries. If you have any questions of an academic nature you will be able to contact the LSE office, but please remember (especially if you intend to study independently) that LSE staff cannot engage in active or regular contact or tuition.

Examinations

You are assessed by unseen written examinations. You do not have to enter for examinations every year: you decide when you are ready. Examinations are set and marked by our academics to ensure your work is assessed to the same standard as LSE-based students. They are held once a year, in May/June, at local centres in over 180 different. For most courses you sit a three-hour paper (or a two-hour paper for each half course). For some courses a project/coursework also counts towards your assessment.
